

ABSTRACT

A method for the direct or adjunct treatment of bacterial or fungal infections in fish and crustaceans including shell fish which is based on providing an effective amount of an organic tellurium compound in an aqueous environment to which said fish or crustaceans are exposed.